

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A video display control method includes the steps of (a) generating camera operation information concerning an operation of a camera
5 operated by remote control, (b) transmitting data of video captured by the camera and the camera operation information to a control apparatus via a network; and (c) processing the data of the video
10 based on the camera operation information so that an image of the video can be displayed at the control apparatus.